In the Snoddy Kaosus City Star "The Green Rider" writes thus of the old Zeiler orchestra and two of Lexington's sweet singers of years ago:

"With this double jointed thought there comes to me and doubtless to many Missourians the sense that sweet music is being played somewhere, for this town and country have always been musical. They are greatly given to bands, orchestras, musical societies and melody. In all the sadness of many years of sorrow there has always been a song or a tune from the old town. There was that silver cornet band that used to win all the contests at the county fairs in the '70's. It played many a time at the Kaosus City fair when that was held at what is now Dundee place. To have a fair without that band meant to be musically worse than campom. It was downright "jackey." An afternoon in the Indian summer; the crowds, the grandstand, William Mulkey's Chiquita wins and the Lexington band plays the "Mocking Bird." Talk of music and its memories!

"They had singers, to, always in Lexington. There was Captain Connor, with his tenor voice. Along with others of Lafayette, he fought under Joe Shelby. The war over, they expatriated themselves and went overseas into Mexico, soldiers of fortune. In a skirmish our Missourians became scattered in the unparall and it was necessary to get together. There was no bugle, drum or trumpet to sound a call, but Captain Connor sang "Rally 'Round the Flag." All heard him, rallied around him, and prevented what would have been a massacre.

"Along in the '70s and early '80', whenever the musical people of Kansas City gave concerts, I believe they call them musicales now, they would send down to Lexington for somebody to help out. The concerts were usually given in the Coates opera house and they drew crowds. There was a man named Smith from Lexington to whom the Lord had given a baritone voice of exceeding power and indescribable sweetness who took part in them. In fact he was the chief feature after we had once come to know and hear him. As pleasant a memory as I have in life is of that man singing the "Gallants

England." A homely man he was, - all awkward, something of the Abe Lincoln order, and a gifted, kindly gentleman. And when he sang there was Mrs. Kersey Cates, sitting in the box to the left of the stage, that gentlewoman who flung to him a bunch of roses, those roses that grew on the trellis on the south of the old Coates home place on Tenth and Penn streets. She could not help it. It was the appreciation of one of the best and noblest of all women to a God-given talent exercised by a worthy man. P or Smith, they tell me at Lexington, died of consumption years ago. He gave delight and pleasure to many usefully and purely. What better can a man have to his memory or what better to his credit when there is a final summing up?"

with local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in the country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. This perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

Thursday night of last week a horse trader named Wood was slugged by an unknown man on Mason street as he was on his way from Glover's livery barn to Squire Taylor's residence, where he boarded. It occurred about midnight and only a few feet west of the stable. He was struck a glancing lick on the side of the head, supposedly with a board and although his head was cut and bruised considerably the force of the blow did not knock him down. George Got, who works at the stable, heard his cry for help and went to his rescue immediately but Wood's assailant had fled.

The price of these Carson Sink valley lands has been fixed at $26 an acre, "payable in ten annual installments commencing on the first day of December of the year in which the water shall be delivered to the lands during the April of that year." As the land must be taken up under the homestead law, the charge is really for the water alone. It is so fixed that the sale of all land under the project will reimburse the government for its expenditures in construction. The irrigation works will be maintained and operated under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior until all payments are made for the major portion of the lands irrigated. The system will then pass to the owners of the irrigated lands and be maintained at their expense under such organization as may be acceptable to the Secretary of the Interior. The management and operation of the reservoirs, and works necessary for their protection and operation must remain under the control of the government.—A. E. It's a joy to eat—I welcome my dinner hour;
Because I rout indigestion with August Flower.

Constipation is the result of indigestion, biliousness, flatulency, loss of appetite, acid-poisoning, anemia, emaciation, neuralgia, neuralgia in various parts of the system, catarrhal inflammation of the intestinal canal and numerous other ailments that rob life of its pleasures if they do not finally rob you of life itself.

"I'm bound in the bowels," is a common expression of people who look miserable and are miserable—yet who persist in "letting nature take its course."

What a foolish plan, when nature could be aided by the use of Green's August Flower, which is nature's own remedy for constipation and all stomach ills.

August Flower gives new life to the weaker and insures healthy stools.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite. I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of hardy praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.
